Hiring is a critical function for you and your team. However, your time is valuable and your focus is on delivering on your business objectives. Don't waste time with piles of resumes or fruitless interviews of not-quite-right candidates. We take the time to understand your hiring needs and culture so that we only give you candidates that support your business mission and are ready to hit the ground running.

We specialize in engineering and sales recruitment for Seattle's top companies. Our team has deep technical experience and also sales leadership experience, setting us apart from most recruiters who rely on search engines and keywords to discover talent.

Finding great talent in an ultra competitive market is possible. TalentReach has built our model on more than 40 years of combined experience in Seattle's unique market. Our model has people and long-lasting relationships at its core. This model has allowed our clients and our candidates to trust us with one of the most important decisions they will make for their business and themselves — the hiring decision.
